

White-Lined Sphinx

(Hyles Lineate)

@appalachiantrail

◆ Because of their large body, these moths must rapidly flap their wings at a similar rate to humming birds

🔍 This moth is common in most of North America, Southern Canada, and Central America.

🌸 The white-lined sphinx likes to pollinate honeysuckle, evening primrose, hosta, lilac, petunias, and more!

#PollinatorWeek